FRANCE WON'T WAR WITH BRITAIN, PETAIN SAYS; HITLER TO DISCUSS WAR WITH GENERAL FRANCO

Carol, Lupescu May Be Returned To Rumania Soon

Former King, Sweetheart and Ex-Official of Palace Held; Latter Fears Death
Guard Is Blamed
Iron Guard Is Reported Responsible; Lupescu Trial Demanded

Seville, Spain, Oct. 22 (Delayed) (P)—Former King Carol of Rumania and his long-time friend, red-haired Magda Lupescu, who fled from Bucharest with him, were placed under virtual arrest today with the possibility that they would be returned to Nazi-controlled Rumania.

Also placed under arrest was Ernst Urdareanu, one-time minister of the palace, who accompanied the pair when Carol abdicated the throne and went into exile.

All three appeared shocked when the police apprised them of the sudden change in their fortunes. Carol had been reported making preparations for going to the United States, and frequently since his arrival here had been in telephonic communication with Lisbon, Portugal.

The police told the ex-monarch and the others they would be sent to Granada while their case was under consideration.

Fears Death
Urdareanu was reported to have raised hands which trembled and in a faltering voice exclaimed: "They'll kill me if we are sent back to Rumania. How is extradition possible?"

The chief of police notified them of their arrest.

Through the partly opened door Mme. Lupescu listened to the opening conversation. The news perhaps was not altogether a surprise since the Madrid newspaper, Arriba, organ of the Spanish Falangists, hinted yesterday that she and Urdareanu might be compelled to return to Rumania to face trial.

Urdareanu's emaciated face became tense.

"His Majesty should hear about this," he said weakly.

Then he and Mme. Lupescu withdrew to Carol's suite, followed by the police chief.

King Astonished
The king, it was reported, could scarcely conceal his astonishment. "Who, pray, gave you those orders?" he demanded.

"My superiors," replied the chief. Almost mechanically Carol asked: "And who are your superiors?"

The chief did not answer.

Police vigilance around the hotel was doubled.

Later, however, Carol was told that he and the others could go into town under escort.

The former king and his companions were reported to be in such low spirits that they did not eat.

Carol, however, seemed to perk up slightly after a visit from the civil governor, who told him they would leave for Granada tomorrow. He even tried to smile.

(Reports from Bucharest had quoted Rumanian officials as saying that the government had decided to ask for the extradition of Mme. Lupescu and Urdareanu. The Iron Guard in Rumania has demanded the arrest and trial of Mme. Lupescu.)

(An editorial in Arriba yesterday accused Carol's two companions of complicity in the assassination of a former Iron Guard chief.)

Principals in Tale of Two Creameries

Production of milk seems eternally to have its problems and last night considerable verbal battling centered around the fact that a group of Rondout Valley dairymen have two creameries on their hands, one of which is now idle. Shown above are those who took part in last night's session, left to right, Matthew Sahler, president of the board of directors of the Shawangunk Independent Dairies; Harry Snyder, manager of the co-operative interests; Morris Simonofsky, treasurer and Charles Freedman secretary.

State Voters Get Three More Hours To Cast Ballots

Republican Leaders Admit That Extension Will Be Aid to F. D. R. in Populous Areas

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 23 (P)—Majority Republican leaders of New York's legislature privately conceded today that three-hour extension of the Election Day balloting strengthens Democratic forces in the battle for the state's 47 electoral votes.

Pointing out that while the 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. voting hours approved by yesterday's special legislative session was "absolutely necessary" to accommodate an expected record ballot on Nov. 5, a Republican chieftain added:

"But there's no use kidding ourselves. Those extra three hours will bring out more votes in the heavily populated districts—the New York city districts, for example, where the majority of votes are normally Democratic."

This point, however, was not overlooked at Republican legislators' conferences. But in the face of an unprecedented registration, the source added, it was felt refusal to extend voting hours would be tantamount to "disfranchisement of thousands of voters."

Accordingly, Republicans joined Democrats in unanimously approving.

Willkie Disputes F. D. R.'s Power To Keep Peace

Kingston Post to Consider Invitation; Loop Would Be Composed of Eight Upstate Cities

Kingston may have professional basketball at the municipal auditorium, if Kingston Post, American Legion, accepts an invitation to join the State Basketball League.

Commander Jerry Martin of Kingston Post is considering the invitation seriously and intends to call a meeting of the executive committee this week, he said, to discuss the matter.

"The State League," Martin told a reporter, "is anxious to sign Kingston to build up a strong loop with keen rivalry among the competing clubs, including Albany, Troy, Glens Falls, Saratoga, Saratoga Springs and Amsterdam."

The Legion is keenly interested in the league, because the upstate loop will do two things for Kingston—furnish the fans with a high calibre of court competition, and also give local players a chance to gain recognition in organized basketball.

59,516 Voters Listed In County Districts

Ulster county's registration of voters for the November election totals 59,516, according to figures just compiled by the county board of elections. This is an increase of 3,620 more than the registration in 1936, which was also a presidential year. The 1936 registration total was 55,896.

The total registration in 1938 was 54,570.

It is believed that the registration of voters this year is the largest in county history.

In Kingston there were 16,126 registered, which sets a high record for the city, while in the county outside the city there were 43,390 registered, a total of 59,516.

Couple Perishes In Red Hook Fire

William Hawley, 40, and Wife, 30, Are Victims; Trooper Investigates

William Hawley, 40, and his wife, Pearl, 30, died early today in a fire which destroyed their two-story frame house in the Turkey Hill section of the town of Mylan, four and one-half miles northeast of Red Hook, Dutchess county.

Trooper Harry Broadbent of Rhinebeck outpost investigated the tragedy and expressed the opinion the couple was overcome by smoke. The fire was discovered by Sam Payton about 5 o'clock. Investigation revealed that the couple and a dog, which also perished, were asleep in a bedroom.

The Hawleys, formerly of Brooklyn, were residents of the house on Oak road about a year.

The house was owned by Michael Barich and about $100,000 insurance was carried on the building.

Cortelyou was secretary to President McKinley, and continued in the same capacity for President Theodore Roosevelt, who in 1907 named him to head the treasury department. Active for many years in Republican politics, he was national chairman for three years, from 1904 until 1907.

Swiss Say Vichy Torn By Quarrel

Axis Is Said to Desire 'Fleet Collaboration' Against British Forces Soon

Raid Is Made

Police Are Said to Have Raided de Gaulle's Headquarters

(By The Associated Press)
Triple defiance of reported Axis pressure on France to join the war against Great Britain emerged today following a mysterious meeting "somewhere in France" between Adolf Hitler and French Vice Premier Pierre Laval.

The vanquished republic will undertake "no military, naval or aerial action against England," a French government spokesman said.

"France will not declare war on England under any circumstances," he added.

(Reports from Berlin previously said events seemed to be shaping toward an attempt to join surviving craft of the French navy with the German and Italian fleets for a combined smash at Britain's sea power.)

Hitler to Meet Franco

Generalissimo Francisco Franco was reported en route today to San Sebastian, at the French-Spanish border, and belief was expressed in informed quarters that he might be meeting Adolf Hitler tonight.

Earlier reports from Spain said Spain's leader was on his way to meet "one of the world's leading personalities."

(Hitler yesterday was "somewhere in France," presumably in the Paris area, where he met French Vice-Premier Pierre Laval.)

While Nazi officialdom and the German press displayed extreme reticence on the Hitler-Laval meeting, indications arose that the Reichsfuehrer was concerned over a possible upsurge of rebellion in the conquered republic.

Authorized quarters in Berlin described the meeting as the best answer to British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's efforts to "stir up" the French against the Rome-Berlin Axis.

Simultaneously Premier Marshal Philippe Petain's French government at Vichy pressed an attack on a widespread "Communist" movement in unoccupied France, accused of spreading propaganda in favor of the "free French" leadership of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Police raided a Communist headquarters in Marseille, arresting 75 persons, including 13 women, and confiscating a large amount of De Gaulle propaganda. Other arrests were announced in Vichy's suburbs, at Lyon and in the Loire department.

Sounds Out Laval

Foreign circles in Rome heard that Hitler sounded out Laval on a plan for a temporary settlement which would make France, Italy and Germany "collaborators" in the war—with Laval promised still greater power in France, and Germany to aid in French reconstruction.

Premier Marshal Petain, the 82-year-old "hero of Verdun" in the World War who surrendered to Nazi conquest last June, was reported strongly opposed to any joint Franco-German action against England, but dispatches from Bern, Switzerland, said there were indications Laval might replace Petain as actual leader of the French government. Petain might remain as figurehead, it was said.

Axis Presses France to Fight Britain

Dark areas show territory France would yield under reported promises from Germany on an "easy peace" if Frenchmen will go to war against Britain. France would be permitted to keep most of her empire intact, informed travelers said, except that Germany presently would get Alsace-Lorraine and German colonies lost to France in the last war. Italy would get Nice, Tunisia and Jibuti.

An excellent example of sand-dune control by forest planting is reported by the forest service, United States department of agriculture. At Saugatuck, Mich., Old Bald Head mountain, 300 feet high and with an eroding area of about four acres, is one of the largest and best known dunes in the state. For some time it had been encroaching on the channel of the Kalamazoo river and threatening cottages near its base. The dune was planted to trees in April, 1931. Black locust, honey locust, and ponderosa, white, Norway, jack and pitch pines were planted, together with large sized willow and poplar cuttings. Carloads of brush were hauled up by cable and spread over the sand between the seedling trees. The city again planted trees in 1932. A high percentage of the trees survived, natural weed growth has sprung up, and the dune is now considered under control.

AXIS LEADERS IN SERIOUS MOOD AT BRENNER MEETING

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, Benito Mussolini (left) and the latter's son-in-law, Count Ciano, (right) Italian foreign minister, wore rather serious expressions as they met in an armored train at Brenner Pass October 4. Behind curtained windows the leaders of the Rome-Berlin Axis, consulting for the third time this year, reportedly discussed the attitude of the United States toward the European war.

British Have Dealt Out Strong Mustard in Saying They'll Control Air in '41

Propaganda Probably Is Based on Growth of Anglo Strength in Recent Months

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The way John Bull takes his knocks and pops up again apparently stronger than ever inevitably reminds one of our old friend, Antaeus, the Libyan wrestler—son of Earth whom none could throw because every time he touched his mother earth he received new strength.

I have in mind the numerous predictions by British officials in the past few days that England soon will be strong enough to take the offensive against the Nazis. It is indeed an amazing circumstance that they should feel able to make such a forecast.

Only about five short months ago the Franco-British forces were smashed in the battle of Flanders. A month later France collapsed and left John Bull to try to hold this avalanche back from his home shores with his bare hands. And thus far he has done it!

Not Mere Bluff

No, I don't think this talk of an offensive is just bluff, because that would be a mighty stupid thing for the British to do. To advertise the ability to make an offensive, without definite prospects of being able to carry it out, would produce an adverse effect both at home and abroad.

Of course, these pronouncements are intended as propaganda. However, I believe it's propaganda based on what the government believes to be facts. The purpose of flying the flag now is to cheer up the long suffering people at home, and impress both friends and foes abroad.

Among other things it undoubtedly is meant to encourage France to refrain from joining the Axis in the war against her old ally. Reports that Vice-Premier Laval, who holds anti-British views, has been discussing aid for the Nazis with Hitler in Paris brought another declaration from the Vichy government this morning that France won't undertake any "military naval or aerial action against England."

No Decisive Effect

However, even should Premier Petain be unable to avert such a flop by his government there are to my mind numerous reasons why it wouldn't have a decisive effect on J. Bull. It would be just another nasty knock for him to absorb after his stoical fashion.

I should say that the vitamin which is making John flex his muscles for action is the great increase in his aerial strength. After having all but lost his fight against Germany because of lack of air defenses, he of late has been carrying the war into enemy territory on a big scale and with devastating effects.

The piling up of England's air strength, both by home production and imports from America, finally has reached the point where Premier Churchill on Monday stated that "in 1941 we shall have command of the air." I must say this forecast seems like pretty strong mustard.

One would think the premier would be satisfied with "superiority" in the air in that short time without expecting "control," which means he can tell the Nazis where to go off aerially, and make it stick.

It's His Prediction

However, it's Mr. Churchill's prediction, and he knows more about his air force than I do. He would seem to get support from the disclosure that the royal air force on September 16 broke up an attempted invasion of England. That was an astonishing story of how a numerically inferior air force wrought havoc with Hitler's troop-laden barges, reportedly killing 50 to 60 thousand men, and preventing an assault which might have cost the life of the empire.

And when does this predicted offensive begin? Well, nobody in authority has named the date, although there is unofficial talk in London of the spring. The British might be able to inaugurate a great drive then, if they don't have any serious setbacks meantime.

The initial offensive must be in the air, for only after the warplanes have paved the way can infantry be landed on the continent and thrown against the Germans. The foot-soldiers must come, of course, for the good old infantry still has to do the mopping up despite the stream-lining of war.

Only yesterday Lord Crotty, under-secretary for war, said that for this reason a great army was being prepared.

If Britain isn't able to stage that predicted offensive you can bet Herr Hitler will stage one for her—with reverse English. And here I must say that you couldn't trust me as a war analyst if I didn't remind you of the end of the story about Antaeus.

Hercules came along and crushed the wrestler, not by throwing him but by lifting him up so he couldn't touch mother earth. John Bull still is faced with the task of keeping from being lifted by main force and crushed by the most powerful military giant ever created.

Valuable Forest Plantings

An excellent example of sand-dune control by forest planting is reported by the forest service, United States department of agriculture. At Saugatuck, Mich., Old Bald Head mountain, 300 feet high and with an eroding area of about four acres, is one of the largest and best known dunes in the state. For some time it had been encroaching on the channel of the Kalamazoo river and threatening cottages near its base. The dune was planted to trees in April, 1931. Black locust, honey locust, and ponderosa, white, Norway, jack and pitch pines were planted, together with large sized willow and poplar cuttings. Carloads of brush were hauled up by cable and spread over the sand between the seedling trees. The city again planted trees in 1932. A high percentage of the trees survived, natural weed growth has sprung up, and the dune is now considered under control.

The wide variation in size and shape of agricultural products, as compared with factory goods, makes it hard to put them in standard packages.

Iroquois Indian Tribe Used Communist Rule

The American Indian didn't have the name for it, but he was a Communist just the same, it seems. Moreover, even under administration of the federal government, he still is to a certain extent.

The Rev. Dr. Philip H. Riegel of Cazenovia Junior college, Buffalo, N. Y., authority on Indian history and customs, reveals that he has found ample evidence that communism thrived on this continent long before the Russians thought of bolshevism.

According to Dr. Riegel, the Iroquois tribes were operating their communistic form of government successfully in what is now New York state when whites reached these shores.

"The Indians' lands were held in common," he said. "When lands were sold to whites each Indian received his share of the return."

This principle of common ownership continues today, with the federal government distributing equally among tribe members the profits resulting from lease of reservation lands and operation of mines located on them.

Describing other communistic aspects of the Iroquois tribal government, Dr. Riegel said:

"Individual ownership was limited entirely to clothing, hunting implements and ornaments. Aristocracy was scrupulously avoided. A chief had no benefits above other members of a tribe. Material awards did not attend his position. He attained his place merely by merit.

"There was a head to this communistic government. He had a cabinet of five members and a legislature. Although it was the woman's lot to do menial labor she, nevertheless, had a recognized place in the councils of the people. Her opinions were sought and respected."

The Christian Endeavor of the First Dutch Church will hold its jubilee banquet on November 7, in the lecture room of the church. This organization was formed in February, 1890, by Dr. Van Slyke and has held regular weekly meetings for the entire 50 years. The group consists of young people between the ages of 10 and 20 years, composed of a Junior and Senior Society.

During the 50 years of service many prominent men and women of this vicinity have been connected with the First Dutch C. E. For the banquet it is hoped that a large number of the associate members will attend both to renew friendships and celebrate the anniversary. The principal of the evening will be Dr. Daniel Poling, president of the International Christian Endeavor. Tickets are now available and may be reserved by calling Kingston 2038 or 655.

Missionary Union Holds Meeting at Rosendale Church

About 129 Delegates Are in Attendance at 18th Anniversary; New Officers Chosen

The annual meeting of the Missionary Union of the Classis of Ulster, marking its 18th anniversary, was held Tuesday in the Rosendale Reformed Church. Attendance included 129 registered delegates and the excellent program provided resulted in a helpful and inspiring meeting.

Mrs. Stephen W. Ryder of Flatbush, closing several years of service as president of the Union, presided at the sessions and, speaking from experience in the missionary field, urged members not to be discouraged at the situation which confronts the world, saying that this was a time when the churches should stand fast and make every effort to hold the ground which has been gained.

The Rev. Albert Shultis, pastor of the church, conducted the opening devotional service and during his talk brought out that "Religion is a challenge to a life of service." He said that it was not a drug, nor an opiate, nor an excuse for a life of ease and complacency.

Adopts New Plan
The union adopted a new plan for raising its allotment of $750 toward the salary of Mrs. Hubert Kuyper, missionary at Oita, Japan and $225 toward the salary of Mrs. VanNes, missionary to New Mexico. Instead of making assessments on the various auxiliary societies they will be asked to make voluntary pledges of the amounts they will give towards these activities.

Mrs. Edgar Ellsworth of St. Remy, who is on both the domestic and foreign classical committees, urged that young women of the Sunday schools be interested in missionary work, especially in the making of articles for the needy in the Netherlands, which country is one of the special interests of the Reformed Church. She also took occasion to pay a tribute to the late Dr. James Cantine of Stone Ridge, long a worker in the mission fields of Arabia. Later it was announced that a bronze plaque, in memory of Dr. Cantine, had been prepared and would be erected in the church at Stone Ridge.

Mrs. George Behrens of Port Ewen spoke in the interest of Hope College, leading educational institution of the Reformed Church, at Holland, Michigan. The College is now observing its 75th anniversary. It has had no new building in 35 years and with registration increased 500 per cent finds itself in need of a new science building. The College serves the entire Reformed connection in this country.

Miss Ellen van Slyke of Kingston, member of the domestic classical committee found need for a capable supervisor of young women's work. She commented on the fact that, despite this lack, reports showed that commendable work has been done. Miss van Slyke was the first president of organized young women's work in the Classis.

Tells of Needs
Mrs. Ryder told of the lack of many articles in Japan at this time, such as coffee, sugar, chocolate, cheese, baking soda, and the like. She suggested individual gifts by mail, in the nature of a "shower," for Mrs. Kuyper, at Oita, Japan. A show of hands indicated that the women of the Union thought it was a fine idea.

An invitation to hold the next meeting of the Union, in October, 1941, in the Jay Gould Memorial Church at Roxbury, was accepted.

At the election of officers Mrs. A. Noble Graham of Kingston was elected president for the ensuing year. Other officers named are: Mrs. Matthew T. E. DeWitt, Hurley, 1st vice-president; Mrs. R. G. Johnston, Kingston, 2d vice-president; Miss Florence N. Relyea, Bloomington, cor. secy.; Mrs. Harry Durling, Flatbush, rec. secy.; Mrs. Harry V. TenHagen, Rosendale, treasurer. Officers were elected unanimously on secretary's ballot.

In addition to business and reports of officers and committees at the morning session there was an address by Mrs. David R. Evans of Somerville, N. J., who as representative of foreign and domestic boards told of their work. She took the delegates on an imaginary trip to the various missionary stations and told of the work being done, saying that they were standing their ground despite the war. She said that a very slight increase in individual contributions to this work would mean a great deal in providing medical service and other help to these people in their hour of need.

Two Talks Are Given
Two very interesting talks marked the afternoon session. The first, by the Rev. John R. Keuning of Dulce, New Mexico, told of conditions and work being done among the Hickory Apaches, who have a reservation 30 by 80 miles in area, the great Continental Divide running through their reservation. They have a church with 188 communicant members and a large Bible class of adults. In summer, when the Indians are scattered, work is done with a house trailer. Mr. Keuning mentioned some of the old beliefs and superstitions and said that apparently it was not realized that attempts to revive the old Indian culture by the present administration was working adversely in that some of the old abandoned practices were being revived. The story was told of one Indian who, although of advanced standing and capable of doing clerical work, successfully had burned four houses with much of their furnishings, because persons had died in them, the Indians having a superstitious aversion to living in such houses. The Indians were reported to be increasing in numbers during recent years, under improved living conditions.

Mrs. Paul Harrison, who for 23 years has been connected with missionary work in Arabia, was the concluding speaker of the day. She opened her delightful talk with the suggestion that the world was beginning to realize what the missionaries had known long ago, that "the world is one." She said the knowledge was being brought home through the sad days that are being experienced, and world-wide catastrophes, that the world is a dangerous place for all when depression and crime are rampant in any part.

Mrs. Harrison told of the experiences she had passed through and the work being done by her husband, Dr. Paul Harrison and herself, in Muscat, Arabia, on the Persian Gulf. She said that the people in this not too delectable location know nothing about the rest of the world, but "they are just like us, after all."

Mrs. Harrison was listened to with a close attention that was a tribute to her story and to the simple, unaffected, but unusually effective style in which the message was delivered.

Dr. Harrison, who has been lecturing in this country, is now taking special work at Ann Harbor, Mich., to further aid him in his work as a medical missionary.

Business Men Plan For Yule Lighting, Other Decorations

With Christmas 65 days away the Uptown Business Men's Association is already making plans for the holiday decorations. A meeting was held last evening at the Hotel Stuyvesant to discuss "Christmas planning" and what is to be done in the way of lighting, decorations and other matters relating to the holiday season. The session was called for 7:30 o'clock and various plans were advanced. One idea which met with approval of practically all members was for greater and more spectacular lighting of the business area for the Christmas season.

No definite plan was devised at the meeting and additional conferences will be held as the plans are developed.

Dairymen Reach Pact at Meeting

"this valley," he said, and added that in its true sense this was not enough for the successful operation of a plant. "Now I guess," he added, "we're supposed to believe in some kind of a miracle."

Tells of Investigations

Mr. Snyder said that he had spent a month investigating the possibilities of additional milk shipments and he believed the desired amount could be obtained. He also revealed that other negotiations are under way which would mean a better outlook for the co-operative, but he said he was pledged to secrecy.

"Such things when made public are distorted," he said, "and I am not at liberty now to tell you what is in progress."

"Telling anything to the board of directors would not be making it public," suggested Mr. Freedman, but Mr. Snyder said he would be violating a confidence, if he revealed what was under way.

Mr. Simonofsky, who personally raised $5,000 in stock for the original corporation, fought from the outset to save the corporation regardless of the action taken by the co-operative.

The only question involved, he said at a time when the meeting was resolving itself into a series of personal verbal battles, "Is whether we are going to continue or dissolve this corporation."

Asks Assurances

"How are we going to get a creamery in Kerhonkson if this corporation is dissolved and what assurance have we got that we'll get one here?" asked Mr. Simonofsky. He explained that interests of the group of dairymen as a co-operative group centered at Kyserike while those of the corporation sought to start operation of the Kerhonkson creamery.

In the event that the corporation was dissolved, continued Mr. Simonofsky, the control of the organization, as a co-operative, would be shifted to the majority group at Kyserike. He held there, however, that the stockholders should keep the corporation intact until definite assurance came from the co-operative interests that a creamery would be operated in Kerhonkson.

William A. Kaercher, of Flanagan and Kaercher, Kingston, who represented the interests of the stockholders, touched upon the point of the co-operative using the name of Shawangunk Independent Dairies in its opening negotiations to form the Shawangunk Co-operative Dairies.

Appears on Checks

Mr. Simonofsky as treasurer reported that the name of the corporation appeared on the checks used in transactions while the co-operative was being formed, but Mr. Snyder and Mr. Sahler said that it was not the corporation's money which was in the deal. Mr. Snyder, asked by Mr. Kaercher if he thought the method used in the forming of the co-operative was legal and proper, replied that it was "done with the advice of one of the best milk attorneys in the state."

Several of those who spoke stressed the point that the co-operative was obliged to the original group who built the creamery in Kerhonkson because it was through their initial efforts that the co-operative is now operating successfully at Kyserike.

Liberal Purchases

"The people of Kerhonkson bought stock very liberally," said Mr. Messinger. They wanted the business in Kerhonkson and that was their understanding in every contract with the Shawangunk Independent Dairies.

Those who have invested, he continued, "are left holding the bag," while the co-operative who took over the Kyserike plant, continues progressing under its own set-up and virtually independent of the original corporation. Mr. Simonofsky stressed the point that unless something were done at once to get the Kerhonkson creamery in operation the stockholders, as members of the co-operative, would be bound by terms of a five-year lease at the Kyserike plant. To this Mr. Snyder answered, "that can be taken care of."

None in Favor

A vote taken indicated that none present was in favor of dissolution of the corporation and Mr. Snyder and Mr. Sahler who favored absorbing it into the co-operative were asked by Mr. Simonofsky.

"Does this sentiment as expressed here tonight mean anything to you two gentlemen?" Both were still inclined to favor dissolving the corporation and Mr. Snyder explained:

"I have nothing against the corporation, only under present circumstances I am left with my hands tied."

Mr. Simonofsky, Mr. Sahler, Mr. Snyder and Mr. Freedman then went into a huddle as some of the dairymen, obviously disgusted with the lack of progress, started to leave the building.

Then as more were preparing to leave, Mr. Simonofsky came away from the group to announce that a compromise had been reached.

Asked Resignation

Shortly before the meeting ended Mr. Messinger suggested that all directors of the Shawangunk Independent Dairies hand in their resignation, but no action was taken on this and efforts to reach a compromise followed this suggestion.

Mr. Snyder view at the outset was that the co-operative was making money now at Kyserike and generally building up its interests so that the Kerhonkson creamery would be able to open. He argued that the Kerhonkson interests would be best served ultimately by their lending full support to current efforts of the co-operative.

Mr. Freedman pointed out that the group at Kyserike virtually represented an entirely new unit and that "getting more for them

School No. 7 P.T. A. Plans Card Party

has nothing to do with getting more for Kerhonkson.

What benefits the co-operative does not necessarily benefit the Kerhonkson interests.

"There should be some definite plan so that the stockholders may feel certain that the Kerhonkson creamery will be operating by next June 1. Therefore I say that this corporation should stay as it is, no matter what plans the co-operative has."

Several at the meeting stressed the fact that the co-operative as it now exists was made possible through formation of the corporation with the building of a creamery as their objective.

When this was done, it was pointed out, the New York corporation interests in control of the Kyserike creamery moved out and the co-operative was able to operate there for its own interests.

The Shawangunk Independent Dairies was started in 1938 after considerable trouble over milk prices at the Kyserike plant. The dairymen intended then that their troubles would be ended having their own creamery, but when they were unable to get it operating at once the co-operative group was formed and the machinery of the Kyserike plant purchased for operation pending the opening of the Kerhonkson plant.

ing the measure and others which permit belated registration today and tomorrow of National Guardsmen called in to federal service; provide extra voting machines in heavy election districts; increase compensation of election workers, and raise from 800 to 950 the number of ballots cast on each voting machine.

Governor Lehman, who called the extraordinary session, signed the measure within a few minutes after the legislature completed its four-and-a-half hour task.

Money for Investors

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Investors in the New York World's Fair will receive 38.4 cents on the dollar, according to a "preliminary forecast" prepared by Harvey D. Gibson, board chairman. Gibson reported an operating profit as of yesterday of $5,020,000 for the 1940 season and a gross revenue of $10,450,000. The total debt is $26,862,800. The fair will end Sunday.

Senator Mead Is Noontime Speaker To 300 Persons

"This is the most important election to be held in the peace-time history of the United States," said Senator James M. Mead addressing an outdoor audience of about 300 at the corner of Broadway and Pine Grove avenue this noon, as he urged the re-election of Roosevelt opposed as it was by untold leadership.

Senator Mead said that Roosevelt appeared upon the scene when our country was "almost wrecked by the Republican party in 1933."

Senator Mead praised the New Deal which he claimed had saved the country from the darkest period in the country's history, and said that in order to save Democracy the New Deal must be continued.

"If the Republican party was successful it would mean carrying to Washington many of the men who futilely tried to stem the depression, or we can have the men who saved America," said Senator Mead.

"No other man could have taken over the administration of this country wrecked and ruined in 1933 and brought it safely through the years that have followed," said Senator Mead.

N. Jansen Fowler, Democratic candidate for member of assembly, presided.

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—Edward De Roulhac Blount, 30-year-old government clerk, was under indictment today on charges of twice threatening to kill President Roosevelt.

Blount, son of a retired lawyer, pleaded guilty at his preliminary hearing before a United States commissioner, but his attorney said he would plead innocence when he was arraigned in district court Friday. He is free on $5,000 bond.

Government attorneys said that on two occasions Blount asserted he would kill the President at the first opportunity.

Blount formerly lived in Evansville, Ind.

Browder to Make Statement At Catskill Court Hearing

Justice Murray Grants Request of Communist Counsel; Lehman Is Asked to Act

Catskill, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—A Supreme court hearing to determine validity of Communist nominating petitions for the November election was recessed until 1:30 p. m. today to permit Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, to make a statement.

Supreme Court Justice William

H. Murray granted the request of the Communist party council over objections of Samuel M. Birnbaum, attorney for the New York State American Legion which seeks to bar the party from the state ballot.

Browder yesterday urged that the senate committee on election frauds investigate "outrageous interference in election right now going on in New York."

Governor Lehman has been asked to stop "a campaign of intimidation" by which "the committee on election rights, 1940" said the Legion was obtaining repudiations of signatures on Communist petitions. Meanwhile, absentee ballots were exempted from a recent order of Justice Murray that printing of ballots be halted pending his decision in the hearing.

The State Bureau of Elections pointed out that most absentee ballots carrying the name of Communist presidential electors and other party candidates already have been printed.

They are given early national distribution, Deputy Secretary of State Patrick McMahon said in Albany, because of a requirement the marked ballots must be returned to local election boards not later than November 1. If the Communists are subsequently ruled out of the ballot, votes for party candidates will not be counted.

Murray heard approximately 130 of the 170 witnesses called by the New York State American Legion before deciding late last night to continue testimony today.

Most witnesses said they were "promised more jobs" if they signed the petitions. Many testified they were told their signing would help "keep the country out of war" and "increase old age pensions."

The party lost its place on the ballot in New York by failure to poll 50,000 voters for its gubernatorial candidate in 1936.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Moller Hanson

YESTERDAY: After a series of hair-raising adventures, lovely Lynn Britton has been rescued from a Chinese revolution by Temu Durin, from whom she was fleeing when she got herself into danger. Temu is taking her to a marriage with the Prince of Shani Lun; unfortunately for everybody Peggy Telford, a friend of Lynn's from America is also along and a little bit in everybody's way as well. But Temu's plane is lost, and now there is firing in the village.

Chapter 24 Street Fight

DAWN had broken on a clear day. The street contained a few late stragglers running towards the gate. One ragged Chinese mother on a crippled feet rushed up to Lynn, thrust her tiny baby into the girl's arms, and scuttled off with two bricks in her hands to join the fight.

Lynn took the infant inside and laid it on the blankets on the kang. It was a plump, rosy-checked little thing not old enough to be as grimy as two elder children that followed her, each dressed in a single garment, a wadded jacket, their bodies from the waist down incredibly chapped and filthy.

"Look after them," Lynn directed Peggy blithely and hurried out again.

She saw a tall ladder leading to a parapet on the top of the wall near the gate they had entered the night before. On the parapet, bricks and boulders were stacked to ward off an attack on the gate. Lynn climbed for the view, and looking down on the outside, spied something she had not expected to see.

A party of the enemy with sword and pick and crowbar were busy digging a hole in the mud-brick wall while the attention of the villagers was drawn to the farther gate. Lynn called for help, and reaching for a stack of bricks, began hurling them down on the men.

Their officer, who was apparently preparing a charge of explosive for blasting, lifted a rifle and shot at her. Lynn dodged back but kept on with her offensive. She could cause some trouble to the party because they were working directly below her stand.

Temu, returning from the scene of action at the farther gate, stared at her incredulously for a moment and then bounded up the ladder and glanced over the wall.

At sight of him the leader suddenly became galvanized. He shouted and aimed his rifle as if shooting to kill. At the officer's shout the other men had dropped their tools and caught up their weapons. The bullets came fast and furious. Temu ducked and pulled Lynn down.

"They recognized you! They're after you!" she exclaimed. "Looks like it," he admitted. "You know there's been a fabulous reward offered for me dead or alive."

"But, how could anyone know you are here?" He shrugged. "How does the bee find honey? How does the thief find money? The fools! They're just wasting ammunition now! If I could get that officer there may be papers on him. I'd like to know who's back of this! You stay down!"

She heard an exchange of shots and in a moment Temu was leaning over the parapet. The men had scattered beyond range and were dropping into the canyon below, their comrades repulsed at the gates accompanying them. Lynn rose and stood beside Temu. It was then she felt the wetness of her garments on her shoulder. Her eyes widened and she reached back. Temu put two hands on her wrist, and drawing her to him, looked over her shoulder.

New Problem

TEMU, in one swift movement, stripped off her Mongol coat. "I didn't feel it," she marvelled, going rather white from mental shock. As she sank down on a pile of brick, he unlooped the two buttons at the neck of her dress and looked at the wound.

"Just a scratch," he said with relief, and placing a clean, folded handkerchief over the spot, he helped her down the ladder. The thought of the steper the inn door, Temu directed Chan to bring hot water and the first-aid kit.

"Oh, this terrible country!" Peggy groaned when he explained what had happened. "Will she die?"

Lynn laughed. "Try to kill me." Lynn placed a three-legged stool before the window from which he punched the paper covering. The baby, she noticed, lay peacefully asleep on the kang.

"Where are the other two children?" she asked.

"Thank heaven, they disappeared," Peggy answered. "What do you think you're going to do with this baby?"

"Baby?" queried Temu absently, tapping a dressing on Lynn's white shoulder.

"As if we didn't have enough trouble already Lynn went out and brought in a baby!" Peggy cried bitterly.

Temu straightened and looked towards the kang as Lynn explained about the whimpering infant.

"I only hope," he said in a troubled voice, "that its mother returns safely. Some of the Chinese women lost their lives. They fought like tigresses."

While Lynn changed to fresh garments, Temu and Chan sought the baby's mother among the inhabitants who were already evacuating the village. They could find no woman who had mislaid a baby.

Bula returned with them. Not content, it seemed, with seeing the enemy retreat, he alone had chased them into the canyon and secured certain information for Temu.

"Just a line on the insurgents," Temu said, "evasively answered Temu to Lynn's inquiry."

After a hasty breakfast they began their trek with the last of the villagers along the northern trail. Somewhere Chan, the resourceful, secured a shoulder yoke, and swinging their luggage, started off on his tireless, cheerful trot.

Bula carried the rifles and ammunition slung across his back and a mammoth sword he had taken from one of the enemy dead. Unused to being afoot, he walked awkwardly in huge Mongol boots.

There was no one with whom to leave the baby. Temu, carrying the infant, amused Lynn inwardly.

"It's like seeing an eagle turned into a nursemaid," she chuckled. "Eagles have babies," he reminded her.

Peggy, mincing along on extremely high heels and using her red parasol as a cane caught his free arm. "You'll have to carry pretty soon," she predicted. "My feet are beginning to hurt already."

He looked down anxiously at her thin, expensive slippers, and when they caught up with an old man and his young wife trundling along, all their worldly goods piled high on a wheelbarrow, Temu asked if they had an extra pair of shoes to sell.

"He seems determined not to carry me," Peggy told the world at large.

"You wouldn't feel very comfortable flung across my shoulder, which is the only way I carry a damsel when she's reached your age," he assured her, handing the baby to Lynn while he examined a peculiar pair of Greeklike buskins occasionally seen in western dress.

Lynn laughed. "Looks as though you're wearing sugar-cured hams. If Sam could see you now!"

"I wish to goodness I were with Sam!" wailed Peggy.

"Then this little adventure has done some good," smiled Temu. "It's reconciled you to your husband."

"He wouldn't be walking me along the edge of the jumping-off place in shoes full of fleas while he carried a fat, Chinese baby that belonged to Lynn," she retorted.

Temu grinned but said nothing.

No Sale
STRUCK by an idea, Lynn turned sharply and put the baby in the little wife's arms.

"You wantee baby?" she asked. "Can have." And she made signs that they could keep the child.

The young woman looked at the infant, shook her head, and she and her husband both broke into an excited chatter.

Laughingly, Temu took back the child. "They are expecting a son of their own."

"Well," Lynn sighed. "It was a good idea while it lasted. They were the first Chinese family I ever saw without any children."

"Why didn't you put it in her arms and run?" Peggy demanded. "That's the way you got it."

Their queer procession started on its way again, Chan leading, and the one-eyed Mongol on his tender feet, with his ball-and-chain gait, bringing up the rear. Temu urged them along as fast as he could, asking each group of refugees they passed if the baby he carried belonged to them.

Finally a woman informed him that she knew the child; that his mother was among the dead of the assaulted village. No, she did not want the infant at any price. There were times when silver was worthless. Though he was a boy, why not lay him down by the roadside as if he were a girl and let nature take its course? There was no way to feed such a tiny baby without its mother.

Lynn overcame that difficulty temporarily by dissolving lump sugar in sun-warmed water and giving it to the infant with a spoon. The trail soon left the top of the ridge and wandered down into a canyon beside a tumbling river, only to climb out again to a wide tableland.

They approached a high-walled farmstead, which at a distance in the clear, exhilarating sunlight, looked as romantic as a medieval castle. But when they gained admittance to the compound it exhibited the usual, dull misery of toil-driven people. The farmers intended to stay to the death rather than flee before the scourge of revolution.

A young matron of the family nursed, with her baby girl, the hungry mite Temu had carried all morning. This family was glad to keep the child since he was a boy. Temu added silver to the gift.

"At least, we've given him a continuation of life," sighed Lynn. They were sitting outside in the shade of the farmstead wall, eating the remains of the food in the lunch basket, and giving Peggy and Bula a chance to rest their feet.

The farmer possessed not even one beast of burden that they could buy or commandeer.

Dreams

Across the way lies the land of dreams. Where work is play, and desire seems

So wise and gay, and the road ahead

A path for the truly great to tread. But, ah, it seems that we never reach

This fabled land, nor ever beach Our fragile craft from the swirling deep

On shadow land where our high dreams sleep. But then, perhaps, it is better so: Wiser to keep alive the glow, Wiser to build great dreams and feel That some fair day they will be real.

There was a knock at the kitchen door of a woman's home recently. When the woman opened the door, there stood a lanky youth black as the ace of spades.

"Good maw'nin', ma'am," he said. "I'm lookin' fo' somebody that wants somebody to do sump'n. You all doan know nobody that wants to hire nobody to do nothin', does you?"

This can be done: Junior—Mother don't appreciate me trying to save for the future. She says I always look so far ahead that I never catch sight of the present that we're living in.

We choose our friends, but our relatives are wished on us; even so, they may have got the worst of the deal.

First Diner—I always eat at this restaurant. You know, in lots of restaurants the waiters grab the plates away from you before you have finished.

Second Diner—They don't do that here? First Diner—Oh, yes, they do, but here you don't mind it so much.

Another hard thing to realize is that the world managed to get along until comparatively recent years without alarm clocks.

Hal—Have you noticed the odd thing about blunt people? Sue—No, what? Hal—They are the ones who generally come to the point.

A local business man made an error in addressing one of his returns a few days ago and wrote: "Eternal Revenue Collector" on the envelope. He said he noticed the mistake before mailing, but let it go and that it hasn't come back. Hearing the story, another business man said he sent his addressed: "Infernal Revenue Collector" and that it hadn't been returned either.

The young man grasped the hand rail of the last car and swung himself up to the rear platform, gasping for breath. It was plain that he was quite winded. A bronzed, heavy-set, middle-aged man eyed him with disfavor.

Middle-Aged Man—When I was your age, young man, I could sprint down the station walk and catch a train without puffing like that.

Young Man—Yes, but I..... missed this one.....at the..... last station.

Navy Bill had broken with his girl. After ignoring several letters requesting the return of her photograph, one came threatening to complain to the captain. Deciding to squelch her for all time, he borrowed all the pictures of girls available on the ship, sending them to her in a large bundle with the following note: "Pick yours out. I've forgotten what you look like."

It does make a difference: Friend—You didn't carry out your plans to Europe? Edith—No, I found out father was planning to move and I didn't know where we would find him when we got back.

A good cause may be better than its leader but it cannot perform much better.

Teacher—What's the plural of "whim"? Student—Women.

Apples Stay on Tree

Columbus, O. (AP)—A hormone spray that tends to prevent ripening of apples from dropping for several weeks has proved efficient in tests by Ohio growers, the state department of agriculture reports. Used during the ripening period, the spray gives fruit a chance to acquire better color and flavor, the report said. Cost of the spray was estimated by F. G. Haskins, Lake county agricultural agent, at from 1 1/2 to 2 cents a gallon.

Brennei Denied Reduction of Term

Widow Tells Judge Family Faces Dire Need

New York, Oct. 22 (Special)—Federal Judge John Clancy denied today an application for the reduction of sentence of George Brennei of Highland on his conviction of conspiracy in illicit still operations in Ulster, Orange, Sullivan, Rockland and Dutchess counties. The plea was made on his behalf by his wife, appearing with his attorney, Franklin Schreiber. Mrs. Brennei told Judge Clancy that she and her family face dire need if her husband is compelled to serve the six-month sentence imposed last week. She said that Mr. Brennei never took part in the actual running of the stills, but merely boarded men who did the work. Mr. Schreiber characterized his client as a "true farmer."

Assistant United States Attorney Raymond Whearty, who is in charge of the case, insisted that the government has evidence to show that Brennei actually participated in bootleg operations in the conspiracy that is said to have cost the Treasury at least $15,000,000 through non-payment of alcohol revenue.

Now Is Best Time For Cauliflower

One Large Head May Serve Five or Six Persons

Ithaca, Oct. 23.—With cauliflower plentiful on some markets, especially around New York city and Buffalo, where the crop is moving to market housewives may want to use more of this vegetable while it is still in season.

The New York state college of home economics says a head of cauliflower that weighs from two to two and one-half pounds will serve five or six persons. To prepare it, remove the large outer green leaves and cut away dark spots. Cauliflower may be cooked whole or separated into flowerets. Place the vegetable in a large amount of boiling salted water, and cook it, uncovered, until it is tender. Drain it, add butter and seasonings, then serve it.

Cauliflower may be served with a sauce which is poured over the cooked vegetable just before serving. In place of a plain white sauce, a cheese sauce, a mushroom sauce, or a hollandaise sauce offers a pleasing variation.

The college says that raw cauliflower is an attractive addition to salads. To prepare it, separate the raw cauliflower into flowerets, cut off any imperfections, and, if desired, cut the flowerets thinly lengthwise. Wash and chill the pieces in salted ice water, drain them, and combine them with other raw vegetables or serve them alone with watercress and mayonnaise or French dressing. Cauliflower can be used in many other dishes to make a valuable as well as attractive addition to family meals, the home economists point out.

Home-Made Irrigation

More than 30,000 farmers with their own means and industry have been reconstructing the irrigation system on the lower reaches of the Amu-Darya river at the Khorezm oasis in central Asia, it is reported in Moscow. Eleven irrigation canals are scheduled in Kazakhstan. The 60-mile Keless canal, already completed, supplies water to 23 farms. The 50-mile Ural-Kushum canal, which 70,000 farmers have been reconstructing, is designed to restore life to that region. The land has had no rain for several years and crop yields have been negligible. Farmers had to migrate with their cattle for hundreds of miles in search of pastures during the summer.

Repairing Flower Vases

There's no need to discard flower vases that have developed leaks and cracks. They can easily be repaired at home. Fill the cracks with white lead worked in with a putty knife. When the vase is colored add a little dry color to match the vase to the white lead, working it well into the mixture before applying. Then line the inside bottom and sides with paraffin. This you can do by melting the paraffin and allowing it to run down the sides, moving the vase around so that it becomes well coated.

Americans Are Safe as Long as Young Men Are

The Young Men's Christian Association released the following for publication:

The Young Men's Christian Association is firmly established and for many years has been doing splendid work in all the large cities of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Uruguay, and Mexico. The leaders of public life in these countries recognize, as they do in the United States, that the Young Men's Christian Association is one of the great bulwarks of Christianity and a protection against the march of paganism and destruction and its strongest weapon against the insidious doctrines that seek to undermine the spiritual and moral fibre of the youth of the world. Because it is such a powerful force for building up good will and brotherly love, it can be of tremendous help in further solidifying Pan America in the crisis which now faces the nations of the western hemisphere.

I wish the Young Men's Christian Association greater success and ever widening influence throughout the Americas. To you, young men, you who are destined to be the leaders of tomorrow, I

Local Residents Attend Convention on Dietetics

New York, Oct. 22 (Special)—Jean Harvey, of Kingston Hospital, Sister M. Bernice and Sister B. McMullen, Benedictine Hospital, Kingston, and Jo Lacy Boyda, Memorial Hospital, Catskill, are attending the 23rd annual convention of the American Dietetic Association, which is being held at the Hotel Pennsylvania here. Sessions will continue through Friday.

The importance of dietitians in the national defense program has been stressed by the speakers. Dr. Mary Bryan of Teachers College, Columbia University, at a luncheon meeting yesterday pointed out that many countries today were facing disaster because warfare was keeping perishable food from them. The convention is being attended by 2,000 of the association's 4,000 members, making it the largest meeting the organization has held since it was founded in 1917.

The ideals you stand for are the life blood of civilization. Democracy is not a forgotten dream—democracy is not on the run. It has been asleep. The decent people of the world, in failing to recognize that the devil and his works were not dead,

It may be a matter of months or years, but no matter how long it takes, victory is ours because the young man of the democracies are real men, not quitters. ## The FAR EAST

Self-Sufficiency Is Goal
Of Isolated Australians

This is the third of four articles written by James Bassett of the Los Angeles Times on his return from a clipper trip to the Far East.

By JAMES BASSETT
AP Feature Service

Australia, a lonely and unprotected island-continent, is striving desperately for self-sufficiency and for the military strength to repel the Japanese invasion that she fears.

As does New Zealand, she sends her best-trained young fighting men to the Middle East.

To the Mediterranean has steamed her "pocket navy."

Even her 400-plane air force has been depleted in order that Singapore—without which the white man would have no bulwark in East Asia—might be strengthened.

But the Anzacs of the big island that is Australia and the two smaller ones called New Zealand are tough, hardy people.

The principal officers of state and of the army, navy and air force talked to me frankly of their situation.

Near Size of U. S.

Australia has almost exactly the same area as the United States, but its population is only 7,000,000.

New Zealand's people number about 1,600,000.

From this small reservoir of manpower, Maj. Gen. John Northcott, commanding Australia's infantry, is creating an army that soon will number 250,000.

New Zealand's will be close to 100,000.

Already 28,000 soldiers—in addition to the navy—have gone to help the mother country of Great Britain in Egypt and Palestine.

And as many as 80,000 more may follow. What worries authorities in case of a long war is that the nation's manpower may be exhausted, and some place this "saturation point" as early as 1943.

A. E. Monk, head of the Australian Trade Unions, says:

Emphasis on Air Power

"We need men right here. England can't utilize her own man strength. She needs our goods more than our soldiers."

Naturally Australia is thinking of both invasion and defense largely in terms of air power.

The all-important lane of ocean commerce between Brisbane and Adelaide, in the temperate and most populous part of the country, needs protection. So does the tropical area around Port Darwin on the north coast, which is closest important point to the Dutch East Indies.

So Air Marshal Sir Charles Burnett is out to produce 26,000 pilots, machine gunners and radiomen a year, which will be supplemented by 4,000 a year from New Zealand. One factory is turning out a combat plane a day—based on an American model—and a powerful all-Australian bomber is in development.

Australians reason that an attacker must necessarily approach with aircraft carriers. Assuming Japan were the aggressor, some eight vessels capable of bringing 400 machines might come into play. Military experts believe an invader needs a 4-to-1 advantage for a successful attempt. By this reasoning, Australia still has enough planes.

No Immediate Fear

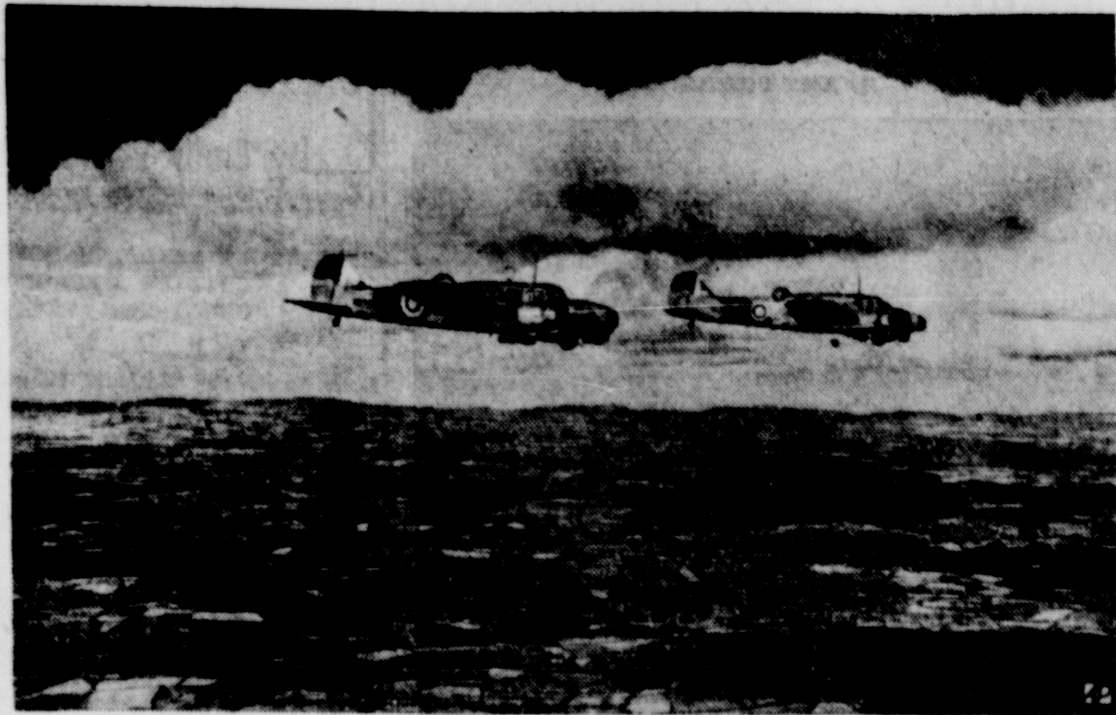

Nobody in Australia, least of all the generals and admirals, expect Japan to make an immediate attack. If England falls, perhaps. But only after white men have been driven out of Hongkong, Singapore, Indo-China and the Dutch Indies.

If under-cover negotiations reach maturity, Australia would not wait for attack. Help would be speeded to the Indies as soon as the war reached that point.

The civilian side of war also is active.

DUTCH FLIERS MAN ROYAL AIR FORCE PLANES

Speeding over the mosaic of England's hedge-marked country-side on a reconnaissance flight, these Avro Anson twin-motored war planes are flown, according to the British caption, by men of the Royal Dutch naval service operating with England's R. A. F. The planes carry crews of three, with machine guns fore and aft.

—although a liberal one of 400 miles a month—and they're practicing blackouts in Melbourne.

Through it all high Australians look hopefully toward the United States. The fleet riding at anchor in Hawaii looks mighty good to them. They'd like to see it closer.

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

EMILY POST EXPLAINS HOW TO ANNOUNCE ONESELF WHEN USING THE TELEPHONE

Both Social and Business Usage Is Given in Detail—Family Order at Funeral

When a married woman calls another woman, whom she knows socially, on the telephone, she says, "This is Martha Kindhart," whether the person to whom she telephones calls her by her first name or not. To some one whom she knows only in business, she says, "This is Mrs. John Kindhart" always. The first person to whom she announces herself as "Martha Kindhart" does not take this for granted as permission to say "Hello, Martha" unless that is what she calls her.

In the same way a man always announces himself to friends and to social acquaintances: "This is John Kindhart." In business he says, "This is Kindhart of Blank Company" under most circumstances. If he is an executive of a company, he says "Mr. Kindhart, speaking."

To a lady who is a client or a customer, he says, "This is Mr. Kindhart."

The Family Order at a Funeral
Dear Mrs. Post: There are five married daughters of the deceased. Please tell me whether at the funeral they go together in the first car, or whether each goes with her own family in the order of their ages. Where do a sister and a brother of the deceased come in the funeral cortege?

Answer: They go with their own families, and in order of their ages but not necessarily one family to a car. A big family might have to be divided in two cars, or more, whereas two or even three small families might go together in one big car. The aunt and uncle would be invited to sit together, or separately, in which ever cars there may be room for them.

The Groom's Parents are Stranger
Dear Mrs. Post: I am a cousin of the bride-to-be and want to give a dinner in honor of the bride, inviting another cousin and her husband (not in the wedding), the bride's parents, and the wedding attendants, but not the groom's parents, nor his uncle and two aunts who are all absolute strangers to me. I would hesitate to invite them, even if I had facilities for entertaining so many people as including them would make. As it is, I cannot give the dinner if they must be included. But before going ahead with plans, I want to make sure that I will not be thought rude for having to omit them at this time.

Answer: It would not be thought rude, because it is obviously impossible to invite an unlimited number of people to dinner. If you were giving a stand-up supper and including many of the older friends of the groom's family, this would be another matter. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Behavior in Public." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Here Are Pretty Gifts You Can Make Yourself

Log-Cabin Pillow From Scraps

Anyone would love this gay log-cabin pillow—but what fervent thanks you'll receive if you give it to a friend with a liking for the early American.

Use odds and ends of colorful material; red, blue and beige are a pretty combination. As for the nine log-cabin squares, you make them this simple way. Cut strips of fabric one inch wide, first drawing threads to insure accuracy. Then press strips, fold in half and fold again, making 1/4-inch lines as guides for seams.

For a center for each "log cabin," cut a 1 1/2-inch square of beige and embroider with French knots as in top diagram. Now sew strips on in the order shown in lower diagram, keeping one color, red, to the right of center square, the other, blue, to the left. Each square will have 12 strips. Then sew completed squares together, stitch to back of plain blue or red.

Another attractive gift you can make as easily and inexpensively is a sewing stand—from a cheesebox!

Complete directions for these and many other delightful gifts are given in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to make a utility bathroom box, a clever two-way screen, a toy chest, many more items.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HAND-MADE GIFT NOVELTIES to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Housemaid Is Held On Murder Charge

Betty Klempa Is Named Slayer of Mrs. Rubin

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—A blonde, 19-year-old housemaid, confessed slayer of her mistress in a quarrel over the quality of her housework, awaited arraignment in the Bronx today on a homicide charge.

District Attorney Samuel J. Foley said the maid, Betty Klempa, signed a written confession yesterday detailing how she battered her employer, Mrs. Leah Rubin, 38, with a baseball bat and then stabbed her with a meat knife "because she kept nagging at me."

Mrs. Rubin, wife of Dr. Eli H. Rubin, tuberculosis specialist, was found dead in the foyer of their apartment October 15 by Miss Klempa, who reported the tragedy to police. She had denied flatly any knowledge of the crime until yesterday.

As related by Foley, her confession said that at 1:30 p. m. the day of the slaying she was reprimanded by Mrs. Rubin for the manner in which she had arranged furniture. "The girl became angry and struck Mrs. Rubin with the bat, belonging to the Rubin's 9-year-old son, Leonard."

"I hit her a lot. I knocked some of her teeth out. She fell to the floor, and I hit her a few more times. Then I went out to the kitchen to get a knife."

While rummaging in the knife drawer, she said she heard Mrs. Rubin call out to her: "Betty, listen to me. I've got two small children. What are you going to do with me? I've always been good to you."

Continuing her search for the knife, she shouted back: "I'm sorry I had to do it."

She went back to the foyer and stabbed Mrs. Rubin several times, then she said she wiped off the knife, washed the bat with soap and water and placed it in its usual place in the boy's room.

Later, she took off her blood-spattered dress and put in a bundle with rags she had used in cleaning the bat and threw them into a refuse basket outside a subway station. Before she left the apartment, however, she threw Mrs. Rubin's purse on the floor after removing several bills "to make it look like a robbery."

The maid went to a store, bought vegetables for dinner, and then took the Rubin's 6-year-old daughter, Susan, from school to a dancing lesson. She and Susan returned to the apartment about 6:15 p. m., when the body was discovered.

Sam Rayburn, of Texas, the new Speaker of the House of Representatives, has been a member of Congress continuously during the past 28 years.

Priority System Established in U.S.

Right of Way Can Be Given to Rearmament and Other Business

Enforcement of a priority system, under which certain materials, at least, will be subject to first call on the part of the government if necessity arises in order to further the rearmament program, was made legally possible yesterday when President Roosevelt issued an executive order establishing such a system. Donald M. Nelson, appointed administrator of priorities, said that the President's action does not mean that "a system of mandatory priorities on all national defense contracts will be instituted immediately."

Under the order right of way can be given to rearmament orders over all other domestic and export business.

Reports indicate that airplane manufacturers have been stepping up production rapidly, although it is still far short of meeting defense demands. Deliveries have been increased from less than $30,000,000 monthly at the start of the year to a record rate currently of around $55,000,000 a month. President Whitney of United Aircraft Corp., said that Pratt & Whitney division of the company was producing 1,000,000 horsepower of airplane engines a month at the present time as against around 100,000 horsepower a month in June, 1939, and that by a year from now the rate will be lifted to 2,000,000 h. p. a month.

Representative Wadsworth (R., N. Y.) sent questionnaires to about 250 business firms in the country, seeking to determine what effect, if any, federal regulation of securities has had on the employment of men and private funds in private business. He said, "We all have heard of the piling up of surpluses in banks and the difficulty of getting people to invest their money in private enterprises. I don't know whether the Securities and Exchange Act is responsible, but I am trying to find out."

A sharply higher profit level for the steel industry generally is indicated in report of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. for the three months ended September 30. The statement, best for any quarterly period since the beginning of the depression, shows net of $2,956,647 equal to $3.35 a common share for the three months. Compare with net of $1,129,001, or 17 cents a share in the 1939 quarter.

Stocks advanced moderately Tuesday in an indecisive market, with best gains in the final hour of trading, when 210,000 of the day's volume of 335,730 shares changed hands. Steels led what advance there was and which sent the Dow-Jones industrial average ahead .61 point for the day, to 131.98. Rails gained .09, to 28.77, and utilities moved up .13 to 22.07.

U. S. Steel led the active list and gained 1 1/2 in turnover of 13,400 shares. Bethlehem, although not on the most active list, gained 1 1/4 and Republic made a fractional advance. The Jones & Laughlin report, showing sharp advance in profits, came after the close of the market, but preferred moved ahead nearly two points.

Commodities stiffened and most staples moved higher and the Dow-Jones index gained 0.33 point for the day, closing at 55.71, best level since May 15. Wheat resumed its rise, closing up 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel and making new highs for the past five months or more. Cotton rallied in late trading and closed one to four points higher. Wheat and rye flour advanced ten cents a barrel in the New York area. Domestic sugar futures were strong. There was a further advance in hide futures.

Willkie Disputes F. D. R.'s Ability To Preserve Peace

Chicago, Oct. 23 (AP)—A former third baseman who said he had been drinking beer and didn't know what he was doing admitted in police court today he struck Wendell L. Willkie in the head with one of two frozen eggs he threw at the candidate last night.

Mulrain Says He Was Drinking

Chicago, Oct. 23 (AP)—A former third baseman who said he had been drinking beer and didn't know what he was doing admitted in police court today he struck Wendell L. Willkie in the head with one of two frozen eggs he threw at the candidate last night.

"I apologize from the bottom of my heart," Charles Mulrain, 55, an unemployed stationary engineer, told Judge Harold P. O'Connell.

When Mulrain said he had been drinking, Captain Thomas J. Duffy, the arresting officer, said he doubted even a former third baseman could throw so accurately if intoxicated.

One egg hit Willkie near the left temple, raising a welt, as the candidate stood on the observation platform of a train in the La Salle Street Station after his Chicago Stadium address. The other egg soiled Mrs. Willkie's dress.

Mulrain was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. Duffy said that since Mulrain formerly played with a semi-professional baseball team in Ft. Riley, Kans., and with the 13th Cavalry team in the Philippine Islands and in Ft. Sheridan, a frozen egg in his hands constituted a deadly weapon.

Witnesses said Mulrain was standing on an express wagon about 15 feet from Willkie when he threw.

The case was continued until Friday.

Woman Identifies Self

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—A comely woman who has lain in a stupor for nine days at Bellevue Hospital while authorities sought to learn her identity roused today long enough to identify herself as Marian Nevins, 29, unmarried and a native of Chicago. After that she lapsed again into unconsciousness. The woman was found nine days ago in a room at the Hotel Pierre unconscious from an overdose of sedative. Hospital officials said yesterday they had learned she formerly worked as a waitress in some upstate town but recently had been living in New York.

11 Bodies Are Taken From Department Store

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—Eleven bodies were removed from the wreckage of one of London's largest department stores today while curious women, who came to see the result of a German bomb hit, went about their shopping in an undamaged part of the store.

About 25 persons were believed to have perished when the bomb smashed into the building last night. A store official said it would be "some time before a roll call can be completed and the exact number of fatalities determined."

The dead were employees who had lost their homes and had taken shelter in the store for the night.

40-Hour Week Begins

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Wage Hour Law reaches at midnight one of its twin objectives—the 40-hour work week. For some 2,000,000 out of an estimated 12,600,000 workers in interstate commerce covered by the law, the change to 40 hours from the present 42 hour week will mean more leisure, or overtime pay at the rate of time and a half. The 40-hour standard is not a rigid limitation.

Will Sail for U. S.

Shanghai, Oct. 23 (AP)—Most of the wives and children of United States naval and marine personnel in China will sail for home Nov. 10 aboard the American Liners Monterey and Mariposa. Their departure is expected to give impetus to the removal of many United States citizens who have been disinclined to leave, despite advice from Washington that they return home as soon as possible.

The Joiners

raid, and it was not until afternoon that an alarm sounded—quickly followed by the "raiders passed" signal.

Today's "invasion weather." Heavy rain clouds darkened the Dover strait; dense mist covered sea; cold northeast wind; waters calm.

Blow to British

A heavy blow to British troops en route to the Near East was reported by Virginia Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, amplifying the Italian high command's assertion yesterday that six British ships were sunk by Italian torpedo boats in the Red Sea.

Gayda declared the ships went down with the loss of all hands—between 3,000 and 4,000 lives lost out of the 36-ship convoy's total of 22,000 troops. The British admiral yesterday asserted that none of the convoy ships was damaged and that the only British casualties were three wounded aboard the destroyer Kimberly, which later blew up the Italian destroyer Francesco Nullo.

In London, authoritative British quarters reported 20 per cent of Germany's productive capacity has been "affected" by RAF bombing forays under a "master plan" of destruction of Nazi war industries. These quarters also said the Germans have been forced to consider the "rebuilding" of Hamburg, the great North German seaport, which has been relentlessly pounded by the RAF.

The Rumanian newspaper "Universul" carried on its front page in heavy black type today a Berlin dispatch which said the Axis powers now plan:

The entrance of Spain into the war immediately, with an attack first on Gibraltar, the British Mediterranean fortress.

Definite military and naval action by Japan as a result of Britain's reopening of the Burma road for war supplies to China.

Entrance of France into the war as a belligerent before the November 5 election in the United States. The dispatch, to which diplomatic sources here attached much importance, said the Axis powers were determined to strike out in all possible directions and with all possible means before the election "in order to give a real warning to America."

Man Rings Alarm And Leaves Post

Firemen Have Difficulty Finding Scene of Fire

An alarm of fire sounded from Box 2222, Delaware avenue and North street, shortly after 9 o'clock this morning caused the fire department some trouble in locating the fire for the one who turned in the alarm failed to remain at the fire box to direct the firemen.

After some questioning the firemen learned that a man in an auto had driven in over North street, turned in the alarm and then driven back out that street.

The fire apparatus proceeded out North street and found a fire in the roof of a small frame building on the former Staples brickyard, just inside the city limits, which is now used as a mushroom plant by Sauers & Spada.

The fire was extinguished without much damage to the roof. The origin of the fire is unknown.

At 11:15 o'clock this morning the firemen were called for a chimney fire at the residence of Mrs. Lida Smith, 62 Hurley avenue. There was no damage.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon the department responded to a call to 134 O'Neill street. When the firemen reached the house they found that Mrs. Martin Carr was burning some papers in a container and that a neighbor had called the fire department.

Penn and Michigan Present Two All-American Linemen

Jackets Are Ready For Arclight Game With Walden Team

Waspes Are Favorites Over Bing O'Neill's Eleven; Big Turnout Expected at Memorial Field

The Kingston Yellow Jackets will play their first night game of the season Thursday night at Memorial Field in Poughkeepsie against the powerful Walden Red Tiggers. The game will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Two of the leading semi-pro clubs in action at the Bridge City, football fans from the Mid-Hudson Valley district are expected to throng the downriver field to watch what might be one of the finest games of the season.

After a poor start this season the Yellow Jackets have come to life with impressive triumphs over Middletown and Port Jervis. In both games the Waspes displayed plenty of power, especially in the line smashes. So far the aerial attacks haven't been used. However, Kingston may resort to the passes Thursday should Walden offer an unusual stubborn defense on the ground.

In past campaigns the Walden Red Tiggers have always been looked up as the No. 1 semi-pro club in this locality. The gridders of Bing O'Neill have plenty of power in ground work and through the air. On the season to date, however, the Jackets appear to have a slight edge at least one touchdown. However, the Red Tiggers will have enough stuff up their sleeves to keep the Waspes from the first period to the finish.

A new backfield star was uncovered Sunday afternoon at municipal stadium when Jimmy Ashdown, former Maroon and White ace, started to go places for the local team. Ashdown tallied two six-point scores and remained in the game long enough to dazzle the Tri-Staters completely.

Although not working up to par the linemen of the Jackets looked improved Sunday. According to word from Walden the forward walls of the Kingston gridders must be at top form to repulse the repeated attacks of the Tiggers.

Thursday's arclight attraction will be sponsored by the Poughkeepsie Knights of Columbus. An estimated attendance of at least 1,000 is expected to jam Memorial Field.

Dykes Thanks Benefit Members

Injured Policeman Is Now Recuperating at Home

Andy Dykes, well-known basketball player who is now recuperating at his home on Prospect street following a recent automobile accident, wishes to extend his heartfelt thanks to all who were connected in his recent benefit game.

Dykes, a special patrolman, was in the City Hospital at the time when a number of sport-minded friends made plans for a basketball game at the Y.M.C.A. of the entire proceeds going to Andy.

Now Andy wishes it to be known that he fully appreciated the work of the many people in this city who were responsible for that benefit game. The committee members, patrolmen and the many individuals who were in any way connected have been mentioned by Andy to receive his grateful thanks.

Baptists Drop Three

Gilsonite Ore Production

Is Latest Mining Venture
Gilsonite, one of the newest and most rapidly expanding mining products, is contributing to Utah's income as the raw material is found in that state in quantities large enough to be of commercial value, mining leaders report.

Five companies operate mines and refineries in the state to handle the hard, dried oil ore. It is a black, shiny, tar-like substance which is used in the manufacture of products such as paints, lacquers, varnishes, rubber, battery boxes, roofing materials, photographic records, printer's inks, tires, floor and linoleum compositions and road materials.

Most recently found use of the rare product is that of making cores, facings and molds in foundries. As new uses are found for gilsonite, produced in quantity only in Utah, the new industry will see greater expansion, officials say.

Gilsonites are classified as select, melting points from 288 degrees and up; and seconds, melting points from 300 degrees to 450 degrees or higher.

'I LIKE THIS PLAY'

By LYNN WALDORF, Northwestern University Coach

(Ninth of a Series)

I like this cut-back inside of guard because blocking assignments are strong and well-timed. It is effective against a team that is drafting to stop wide plays. Paul Soper ran 74 yards on it to score against Illinois last year. The No. 4 back takes two steps to his right and cuts back inside defensive left guard. To open a path for the runner, the center and right tackle block the defensive right guard, our right guard pulls out and around to dump the opposing left guard, the right tackle blocks their center and our No. 2 back takes the fullback out. Out 3 back fakes wide as though leading No. 4 on an end run.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Chitter chatter: J. M. Sanderson has coached football at Morningside College 29 straight years, and who can beat that?...Sam Snead's older brother, Pete, is assistant pro at a club in Hot Springs, Va. They look so much alike visitors often say to Pete: "Hello, Sam."

...When Floyd Giebbels, young Tiger pitcher, bumped into Pat Mullen, his old room-mate, at Buffalo the other day he pulled out his World's Series roll, stripped off two ties and said, "there's a wedding present for you, Butch...." (Pat gets married down in West Virginia today.)

The St. Mary's (Texas) football squad, which roams the land in a red, white and blue bus, is crowding eastern schools off the New York sports pages.

Where Is It Now?

When Dick Chapman won the French amateur golf championship last year, the Frenchmen wouldn't let him bring home the trophy....Made him take a picture of it, instead....Dick protested, but they told him no, 50,000 Frenchmen couldn't be wrong....The trophy probably is among Hitler's souvenirs by this time.

Personal Mention

Ernie Lanigan, press agent par excellence for the International League, is making a pilgrimage to the baseball shrine at Cooperstown. They may try to keep him up there, for if ever a guy belonged in the Hall of Fame it's Ernie.

...Catfish Smith, Mississippi U. line coach, once received a letter addressed only with a rough sketch of a catfish. ## Noted Basketball Ace Will Make Appearance in Kingston

PUNTS AND PASSES
(By The Associated Press)

Seattle—Cupid succeeds against the University of Washington football teams where their gridiron opponents fail. Tackle Byng Nixon of Seattle just has disclosed his engagement to Eudora Britten, 20-year-old elevator operator, giving cupid a record of four scores in three days. Others engaged are Rudy Mucha, star center; Dean McAdams, triple threat halfback, and Lloyd Phelps, sub back.

Newton, Mass.—It seems those Idaho boys didn't realize how lucky they were when Boston College only beat them 60-0. Charlie O'Rourke, known as "Chuck" Charlie, didn't try a pass against the vandals. Neither did he do any kicking.

Austin, Tex.—Canny Danx X. Bible, the Texas coach, doesn't overlook many bets, but he was cold on (not as) Ice. Two years ago, one of Bible's Kansas City friends sent his son, Harry Ice, here. Ice was little and, in plain words, not so hot. Bible gave him a little fatherly advice about the advantages of schooling in one's home state, and Harry packed off to Missouri U. It was this same Harry Ice who started in Paul Christman's place last Saturday and reeled off three touchdowns against Iowa State.

Providence, R. I.—One of the spectators at the Brown-Holy Cross game Saturday will be Walter J. Mullen of Springfield, Mass., the only man ever elected captain of both the Boston College and Holy Cross elevens. He played quarterback for B. C. in 1911, his Freshman year, and was elected captain at the end of the season. That fall, however, he transferred to Holy Cross, played there three seasons and captained the 1914 team. He planned to watch his son, Walter, Jr., operate for Brown against Holy Cross, but due to an injury the younger Mullen also will be in the stands.

Fort Collins, Colo.—It's hard for old-time football fans in the Rockies to remember when they've seen a more aptly named fullback than Colorado State's sophomore, Lewis (Dude) Dent. He's been denting every line he has faced. Utah also has a back who lives up to his name—Max Speedie. He's so fast he set a big seven conference record for the low hurdles last spring.

Columbia, Mo.—The most spirited player on the Missouri squad these days is Rayburn Chase, the blocking back, whose wife preceded him with a daughter Monday. It's his third child.

Quintet Still Has Many Rough Edges

The Morgan Business School quintet held its first scrimmage of the season at the Y.M.C.A. court Monday evening with a squad of eight players.

Jim Norton, Al Flowers, Remberto, Junquera, Ed. Maurer and Lou Costello opened a practice tilt against a picked team representing the "Y". Phil McGowan, Bob Saehloff and Bill Elwyn saw action during the game for Morgan's.

Before the season opens the team will hold a number of drills to iron out the many rough edges in the line-up. The manager for the team is Ed Safford.

Department of Recreation and Elston Sport Shop Will Sponsor Clinic of 'Chuck' Taylor

"Chuck" Taylor, rated nationally as a leading basketball authority, will make a personal appearance in Kingston Tuesday evening, October 29, at the municipal auditorium. His court clinic will get under way at 8 o'clock. No admission will be charged.

Taylor, now making his 14th annual tour of the United States, will be brought to Kingston under the joint sponsorship of the Kingston Department of Recreation and Elston's Sport Shop.

Every basketball spectator and participant of the sport is requested to attend this unusual class at the auditorium. In proving his methods Taylor will have the use of two local teams, the Boston Cleaners and Elston's Sport Shop quintet.

Will Advise Players

"Chuck" will give personal instructions on basketball fundamentals consisting of passing, catching and throwing the ball. His advice will also be for the art of shooting, the screen plays and the proper balance or set-up for offensive team play. Besides his personal team Taylor will show some interesting basketball movies covering major basketball tournaments.

Authorities of the college sport rate Taylor as the greatest ball-handler of the game in history. Prior to his present work of touring the country to offer advice to up and coming game stars, "Chuck" won an outstanding record as a player both in school and with leading professional teams. He has the distinction of being a member of the National Association of Basketball Coaches and serves on the visual interpretation committee.

According to word received from Taylor's offices, the work and advice given by the noted court star does not conflict with any coaching system. Hundreds of coaches throughout the country have endorsed Taylor's ideas and report that their squads have gained much benefit in the various phases taken up by "Chuck."

It is hoped that a large delegation of players from the various City League teams and other independent clubs will attend the meeting next Tuesday evening. A special invitation is extended to G. ## Autumn Brings Return of Hunters

Frank Owens, Ellenville hunter, is shown afield as nimrods in this area began what promises to be the best season in years. Besides the owl—a pest and predator—head of a white-tailed deer and ring-necked pheasant, are shown in superimposed layout. Posing in natural setting to give life-like appearance, the specimens came from a taxidermist's display. The deer head? Simple—there's a fellow back of that tree holding it up!

Hunters Say Game Plentiful Around Ellenville Area

Ellenville, Oct. 21.—Ellenville and vicinity hunters are reporting plenty of birds, rabbits and squirrels in this area and predict the best season in years.

Although an abundance of woodcock have been seen since the season opened on that bird opened in southern New York (except Long Island) over a week ago, nimrods say heavy foliage hampered them considerably during the first few days.

Joseph Irwin of Napanoch said the other day that he had had "three or four shots" at woodcock at fairly close range, but failed to bet anything because the birds were protected during their erratic flight by the dense leaves.

Sub-freezing temperatures in the last few nights have helped bare the trees, however, and hunters are now getting better shots at birds rising in wooded sections.

Few Woodcock Seen

Harry Gerber of Wurtsboro reported that few woodcock had been seen between there and Port Jervis, but that rabbits and squirrels "seem plentiful this year."

Frank Owens of Ellenville said he had seen "quite a few pheasants" in the last couple of days and that he hoped to bag an early quota on these birds. Season on pheasants, rabbits and squirrels opened in this area Monday noon.

George Kuriger, Kingston native now employed in Napanoch, said it looked like the "best season in years for hunting in this vicinity."

"I've been out with the dog a few times and have spotted several pheasants. Saw a lot of rabbits and squirrels, too. There's no reason why we shouldn't have a great year."

Although relatively dry weather in few weeks past will be a disadvantage to hunters using dogs—since slight moisture is desired to hold scent—the reported abundance of game should offset this factor.

Lots of Game

Frank Rhode of Ellenville, another inveterate marksman who is known in local hunting circles, said he has seen lots of birds and plenty of red and gray squirrels.

Several deer have been seen near Sam's Point, not far from Cragmoor, and bear have been sighted near Samsonville.

Robert Nichols, who lives just off Route 209 between Ellenville and Napanoch, said he has run across plenty of rabbits and squirrels but has seen few birds in hikes around Ulster Heights.

Arnold Schonbachler, another Napanoch nimrod, reported considerable game on the Catskill side of the valley and said little was to be found on the Shawangunk mountain.

"I've heard there are plenty of pheasants over in Walker Valley near Pine Bush this year," said Mr. Schonbachler.

Joe Hyatt, Lackawack gunsmith, said that heavy sale of shotguns and rifles in this area indicated that a record number of hunters would take to brushlot and wood this season.
